

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

I am a college student and spend thousands of dollars on tuition and textbooks. I also have car insurance bills to take care of every six months. I have phone cards and Tracfone wireless to avoid paying even more every year. If you decide to raise the rates, you will be not only hurting every college student in America who loves phone cards for their low rate but every American. Please don't make me have to pay more!

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

Christopher Martin
